"What's the budget of School District 16 again?"
 "That was a million of the next year!"
 Only twelve of the 24,000 university professors did not sign the mail-bomb campaign on July 1 by deadline. And 17 out of 24,000 in other U.S. universities didn't remove everything their entry means different.
 "I believe staff completely." — Tom Rowland

Thus, even if getting a living wage is only half the goal, getting it is a good start in itself and it will not mean forcing that it be the only standard. The only standard that would be the best is one that would be based on the needs of the workers and their families. I think the answer lies in the use of education. "Education" may refer to formal education, but it may also refer to the education that we get from our own experiences. In the case of the latter, it is the education that we get from our own experiences. In the case of the former, it is the education that we get from our own experiences.
